ABOUT

Trading Model

Funds received through eligible participation in our programs are used as part of the company's trading operations, including Forex market activities.

Our trading team and technology infrastructure manage trading activities according to the company's defined strategies, risk-management procedures, and operational policies.

Partner Network

Participants may also have the opportunity to become partners and introduce new participants to the platform.

Our compensation plan offers defined rewards for qualifying promotional and network activities. Commissions are subject to the applicable qualification criteria and terms.

- Our business model is designed to bring together participants who provide capital to the platform and partners who help expand our community through referrals.

OUR APPROACH

We focus on four core principles:

TECHNOLOGY

Providing digital infrastructure for account, network, and commission

COMMUNITY

Building a global network through legitimate referrals and partner relationships.

TRADING

We are not depending on any single strategy, we are deploying capital through structured Forex trading activities using different trading strategies like

- Scalping
- Hedging
- Smart money concepts,
- Investing and AI trading.

TRANSPARENCY

Clearly communicating applicable program terms, qualification requirements, fees, risks, and rewards.

OUR MISSION

Trading in financial markets is not suitable for everyone. Many people try trading, experience losses, and stop. Our vision is to build a technology-driven trading ecosystem that allows people to participate indirectly in trading activities and through a structured partner network, within a clearly defined business model.

We aim to develop a platform where people can participate in trading-related opportunities, while partners can build and manage their referral networks using dedicated digital tools.

OUR VISION

We envision a platform where people can access trading-related opportunities through professional trading operations, innovative technology, and a structured referral network, while promoting transparency, responsible participation, and awareness of financial risks.

WHY FOREX TRADING IS NOT FOR EVERYONE

Although Forex provides access to global financial markets, it involves significant financial risk. Market prices can change rapidly, and losses can occur.

Capital Can Be Lost

Forex trading does not guarantee profits. A trading position can lose value, and participants may lose some or all of the capital allocated to trading.

Leverage Increases Risk

Forex trading may involve leverage, which allows a trader to control a larger position with a smaller amount of capital. Although leverage can increase potential gains, it can also magnify losses. Even relatively small market movements can have a substantial effect on an account.

Markets Can Be Highly Volatile

Currency prices can move quickly in response to:

- Economic data
- Central-bank decisions
- Interest-rate changes
- Geopolitical developments
- Inflation
- Employment reports
- Market sentiment
- Unexpected global events

These movements can occur within seconds or minutes.

Successful Trading Requires Knowledge

Forex trading is not simply a matter of predicting whether a currency will rise or fall. Understanding market structure, risk management, position sizing, leverage, execution, and trading costs is important.

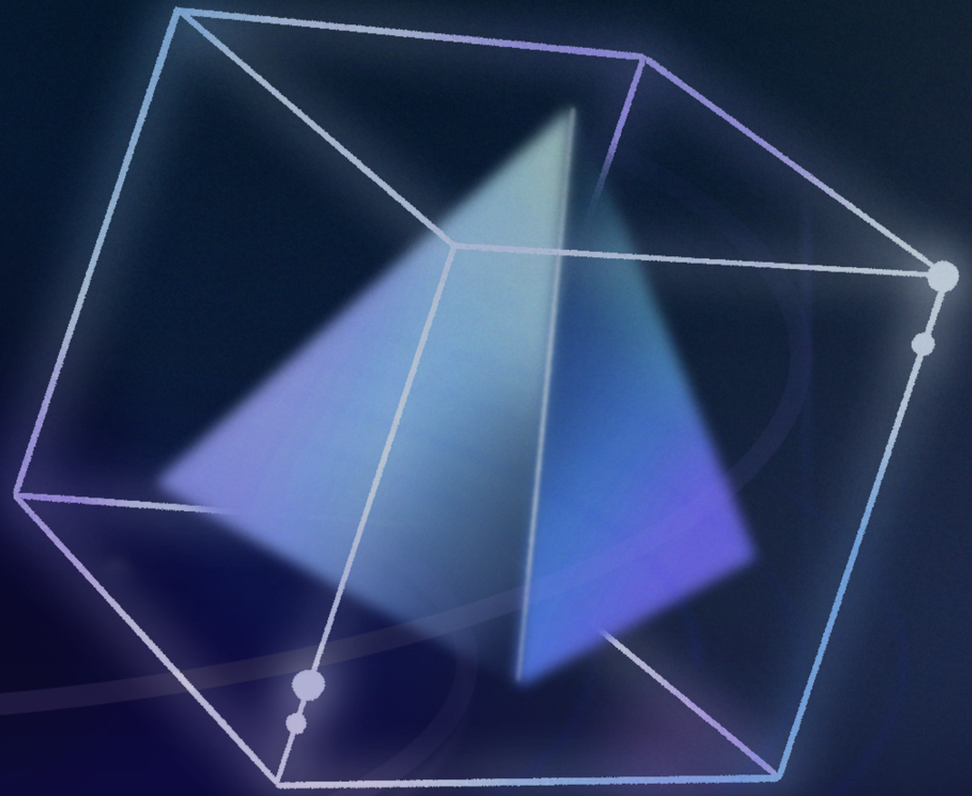
Emotional Decisions Can Increase Losses

Fear, greed, overconfidence, and the desire to recover previous losses can influence trading decisions. Without appropriate discipline and risk controls, these behaviours can increase financial losses.

Past Performance Does Not Predict Future Results

A trading strategy, trader, or trading program may perform well during one period and poorly during another. Previous trading results should not be treated as a guarantee of future performance.

Who Should Consider Forex Trading?



Forex trading may be considered by individuals who:

- Who have already experienced and understood market
- Who knows trading with risk and rewards
- Understand that losses are possible
- Have an appropriate risk tolerance
- Understand leverage and its risks
- Are willing to learn about financial markets
- Understand the terms and costs associated with trading

With our platform, participants do not need to manage every aspect of trading themselves. Our team includes experienced traders and analysts who use different trading methods. However, trading outcomes are uncertain, and returns are not guaranteed.

As our name, BeInGroup, suggests, participants may also have the opportunity to join our affiliate program, build a community, and work towards achieving their goals.
